25X1 1. A special section for propaganda in foreign countries was established in the Agitation and Propaganda Section of the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Communist Party. The new section has two offices: one for propaganda in non-Communist countries, and the other for propaganda in the Soviet Union and the Satellites.

2. Leaflets, pamphlets, and books, written in nearly all European languages, are printed in the printing offices of Borba, 31 Decanska Street, Belgrade. The authors of such printed material are usually Yugoslav Communists, but there are some foreigners as well. This literature is usually channelled to foreign countries through Yugoslav diplomatic installations abroad.
